BLOW THAT SHOCKED DADDY GOT UNCLE ON TENDER SPOT

Old Gentleman Now Naturally Fears He Has Lost the Confidence of His Neighbors.

Susan was having her first beau, a youngster who drove a truck. And often when he came to Susan's home at night, since he lived in the other part of town, he came in the truck. The family continually twitted her about it, saying such things as "I suppose the neighbors will think we're having our coal hauled at night," or "our flour" or some other comicality.

But one evening even father was horrified when one of the ten-year-old boys in the neighborhood said innocently: "My pa said that your pa would get pinched some night if he didn't quit having so much booze hauled here after dark."

Investigation disclosed the fact that the truck that stood at their door one evening each week was an old brewery truck.—Indianapolis News.

Small Boy's Innocent Repetition of Mother's Remark Not Likely to Promote Cordiality.

Nine-year-old Joe had received a watch of that sort all boys have for a birthday present. With it was a little chain, the whole outfit taken together not costing more than $3. But Joe did not value it accordingly. His uncle, amused at him, told him all the burglar stories he could think of. But little Joe wasn't awed. Finally, near the end of the week, his uncle asked, "Aren't you afraid burglars will steal your watch, Joe?"

"No, sir," he said, and his eyes shone with pride. "You see me go out to the garage just before dark. Uncle Bob, Well, I hide my watch under the seat of your car. Mother said burglars wouldn't steal it if you gave them a prize for doing it, 'cause it's so rickety."

The Right Is Not All.

You remember the story of the Pitcher—

It made a good many trips to the well and it came back in good order.

"I can take care of myself," it said—"they don't need to talk about risks to me."

But it went once too often.

After that it was only part of a pitcher, and they didn't need to talk to it about risks—it knew.

A lot of people won't believe coffee can harm them until it does harm them.

"Nonsense!" they say, "it never disturbs me."

When it does disturb them, then they know.

Often the disturbance which they then recognize is the result of irritations to nerves and digestion which have been going on for a long time.

If you have to lie awake at night and count the clock ticks, after an evening cup of coffee, then you know that it's better to be safe than sorry.

The risk of coffee's harm is gone when the meal-time drink is Postum.

Here's a delightful and satisfying table beverage, with charm for the taste and without harm for nerves or digestion. You know you're on the right road with Postum; there's never the possibility that you'll go once too often.

Postum comes in two forms: Instant Postum (in tin) made instantly in the cup by the addition of boiling water. Postum Cereal (in packages of larger bulk, for those who prefer to make the drink while the meal is being prepared) made by boiling for 20 minutes.

PREVENT LOSSES IN SHIPPING HAY

Invoices Should Precede Car and Contain Full Details Concerning Consignment.

FOLLOW INSTRUCTIONS GIVEN

Exact Weight of Hay and Number of Bales to Car Should Be Stated on Bill of Lading, Together With Its Grade.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Careless and inaccurate billing or invoicing are responsible for much of the delay and losses experienced by hay shippers, says the bureau of markets and crop estimates, United States Department of Agriculture. Accordingly the bureau has prepared the following suggestions that apply to the shipment of grain as well as hay:

Follow billing instructions in detail, naming route and delivery road when requested.

Forward bills of lading and invoices promptly.

Prepare invoices carefully, stating car initial and number, date of shipment, number of bales, total weight of car, or of each particular kind or grade, and price data when available.

Follow instructions closely.

If the billing instructions furnished by the consignee are not clear, it is generally a better plan to hold the shipment until satisfactory instructions are received than to take the chance of billing it incorrectly. When specific instructions as to routing or delivery are given they should be followed in detail, as it is frequently the case that shipments arriving over roads other than those specified must be switched at considerable cost before delivery can be made at the desired location. In many markets hay shipments arriving in certain railroad yards will not sell as advantageously as when they arrive in other yards because of unfavorable switching facilities or because of the distance of the yards from buyer's warehouses. Commission merchants and dealers in the markets are familiar with these factors and, when possible, request billing that will not subject their hay shipments to these handicaps.

Buyers may also desire to reassign their hay upon arrival or change the billing while the car is in transit; but if the hay is shipped via another line from which they cannot reassign the shipment, they may suffer a considerable loss which can be charged back to the shipper, if he has not followed shipping instructions.

Forward Bill of Lading Promptly.

When the bill of lading has been signed by the railroad agent it should be forwarded promptly to the consignee, unless it is desired to attach a draft to it, in which case it should be placed in the bank for transmittal to the consignee at the earliest possible moment. When cars are shipped only a short distance, and especially if billed to shippers' orders, the bank should be directed to forward the draft and bill of lading direct to consignee's bank, if known; otherwise to a bank in his town. If this precaution is not taken the bank may follow its usual custom of sending the documents through the regular channel of corresponding banks, which may delay delivery to the consignee until after the car of hay has arrived and been placed on demurrage.

In addition to careful and accurate routing of the shipment, the exact weight of the hay and the number of bales loaded into the car should be stated on the bill of lading, and it is also a good practice to state the kind and grade of hay comprising the shipment.

Making the Invoice.

When a car of hay is consigned to a dealer in a distant market a letter to him stating that a car of hay is being shipped is not sufficient information upon which he can arrange to the best advantage for its arrival and sale. Whether a car is consigned or has been sold on track or to arrive, a carefully prepared invoice should be sent the consignee at the time the car is shipped. Such an invoice should show the car initial and number and date of shipment. Also the kind and quality of hay, together with the number of bales and the total weight. If two or more distinct kinds or grades have been loaded, the number of bales and the total weight of each kind or grade should also be shown.

A Confusion.
A little girl whose father is widely known as a writer of humorous stories, was recently approached by a visitor who said: "It must be nice to have a papa who knows so many fine stories." The little girl blushed and hung her head.

"Aren't you proud of your papa?" the visitor asked.

"Yes," the little girl answered, "but I think I ought to tell you something."

"What is it?"

"The stories of my papa's aren't stories at all."

"Not stories?"

"No."

And in a deep hoarse whisper, the child confessed:

"He makes them all up out of his own head."—Youngtown Telegram.

Christian Name.
In a certain primary class the teacher had been at great pains to explain the distinction between surnames and Christian names. Then she called upon the children to give examples of each kind from their own names and those of other members of their families.

When Charles was asked to tell in one statement the surname and the Christian name of his father, he responded, after some hesitation: "My father's surname is Tompkins, and his Christian name is a Methodist."

Sweet Dreams.

Like most three-year-olds, Dorothy Jane is always very insistent on having her own solutions. One evening she decided she must have something to eat before going to bed, and on a survey of the pantry, decided on raw Irish potatoes. However, big sister objected to this choice, saying: "Dorothy Jane, you must not eat raw potatoes before going to sleep; you will have bad dreams."

"Well, then give me sweet potatoes; they make me sweet dreams," argued Dorothy Jane.

Proved.

So Much for So Little Money

It is still causing great surprise that the making of Dr. Price's Baking Powder with Phosphate instead of Cream of Tartar permits such an excellent baking powder to be sold at 25c. for a large-size 12-oz. can. But a greater surprise is in the good, light, wholesome home-baking it produces.

A Large Can of Dr. PRICE'S PHOSPHATE Baking Powder 25c

The following recipe will give a hint of the wealth of good things in the New Dr. Price Cook Book, which every woman should have.

COCOANUT LAYER CAKE

3/4 cup shortening 1 egg 3/4 teaspoon salt
1 cup sugar 1 cup milk 3 teaspoons Dr. Price's Baking Powder
1 teaspoon vanilla extract 8 cups flour

Cream shortening, add sugar slowly, add flavoring and well-beaten eggs; add milk; mix well; then add flour, salt and baking powder which have been sifted together. Bake in three greased layer cake tins in moderate oven 12 to 15 minutes.

COCOANUT FILLING AND ICING

3/4 cups granulated sugar 1/2 teaspoon vanilla extract
3/4 cup water 1 teaspoon lemon juice
8 egg whites 1 cup fresh ground coconut

Cook sugar and water over slow fire without stirring until syrup spins a thread; pour slowly over egg whites which have been beaten until stiff; beat until thick enough to spread; add flavoring. Spread between layers and on top of cake. While icing is still soft sprinkle thickly with coconut.
